New Jap Force Lands in Guinea

HAPPY TO BE HOME AGAIN—A big hug and kisses were in order when U. Alexis Johnson, of Glendale, Cal., vice consul at Mukden, Manchuria, was greeted by his wife at the arrival of the Gripsholm Tuesday.

Gripsholm Refugees Bare Japs' Tortures

JERSEY CITY, N. J., Aug. 26.—(P)—A steady stream of grim testimony to war's burden on civilians—men and women returning from the Orient with thin bodies and shadowed eyes—disembarked from the diplomatic liner Gripsholm on the day after its return from Japanese-occupied territories.

By nightfall 601 of the more than 1,400 repatriates who had completed a long voyage home had left the docked vessel, including approximately 145 whom the government sent to Ellis Island for further questioning concerning their loyalty to the United States.

Though instructed by the State Department to speak cautiously of their experiences—out of deference to their compatriots still living in conquered countries—some volunteered information about starving, face-slapping and humiliating tactics of the Japanese. Others spoke of more happy treatment.

Most of the stories of severe treatment came from those who lived through the capture of Hongkong, where prison conditions immediately after the Japanese occupation were described as abominable.

Walter F. Arndt, assistant general manager for the American President Lines at Hongkong, told of being held for 16 days in a Chinese brothel where for two days none of the five occupants of a tiny room was given either food or water.

"I was kept in a 15-by-17-foot cell with 30 other persons, mostly Orientals," said H. S. Dunn, Far Eastern manager for Warner Brothers Pictures, describing his 64-day ordeal in Shanghai. "In that time my only food was a bowl of rice three times a day."

Paul V. McLane, Canadian government trade commissioner at Hongkong, described the plight of between 1,700 and 2,000 Canadian war prisoners at Hongkong whom he said the Japanese authorities refused civilian internees permission to visit before they were evacuated.

"It seems pretty definite that conditions in the camp are hard and that supplementary food and

Allied Bombers Sink Transport, Blast Cruiser

By The Associated Press.

The Japanese have landed ground forces at Milne bay in southeastern New Guinea in the face of strong air opposition, it was announced officially today by General MacArthur's headquarters in Australia.

Allied bombers sank one Japanese transport during the landing, the announcement said. A Japanese cruiser was heavily damaged and probably sunk and a destroyer was damaged.

"Our ground forces are in contact with the enemy," the communiqué added.

Landing Site.

Milne bay is at the extreme tip of New Guinea opposite the Louisiade archipelago. It is about 200 miles southeast of the Buna-Gona area, where the Japanese landed moderately strong forces several weeks ago.

In the Buna area, the communiqué said, Allied fighters operating in extremely bad weather yesterday caught 10 Japanese fighters while taking off and destroyed six of them. Two others were damaged.

"Fires were started on the field," it continued. "One of our planes is missing."

Referring to the Milne Bay landing the communiqué said: "In the face of strong air opposition the enemy landed ground forces from a small convoy during the night."

Text of Communiqué.

The communiqué said: "Northwestern Sector: Timor: Allied medium bombers attacked Dil and enemy installations, starting fires."

"Northeastern Sector: Buna: Despite bad weather conditions in another surprise attack our fighters caught 10 type Zero fighters while taking off, destroying six and damaging two. Fires were started on the field. One of our planes is missing."

"Milne Bay: In the face of strong air opposition the enemy landed ground forces from a small convoy during the night."

"Allied heavy bombers, under the most adverse flying conditions, attacked from a low altitude and sank a transport, heavily damaged and probably sank a cruiser and damaged a destroyer."

"One of our bombers was shot down. Our medium bombers and fighters heavily bombed and strafed enemy barges, supplies and enemy personnel on shore. Many fires were started and six landing barges were destroyed."

Meanwhile, American air power has repulsed one Japanese invasion fleet seeking to recapture vital areas in the Solomon Islands and has wreaked havoc among attacking Japanese planes, the Navy disclosed.

All in all, the results to date of the terrific new struggle for strategic islands are "encouraging," a communiqué said, but it made plain that a large-scale sea battle still was raging north of the Solomons, and that the outcome could not yet be estimated.

However, as an indication of the blows dealt the enemy since he started his current effort to regain control of the Solomons, the Navy disclosed that at least 12 Japanese ships have been damaged.

Six Left Burning.

Six of these, including two destroyers, were left burning fiercely after American bombers plunged upon enemy transports, cruisers and destroyers approaching the major island of Guadalcanal from the northward on Au-

Operation Pronounced Success Here on 'Rarest' of Diseases

A 13-year-old Georgia boy, Billy Collier, of Warm Springs, and Atlanta doctors combined forces this week to lick on the operating table one of the rarest diseases known to medicine.

Billy was the victim of giant hydronephrosis, of which there have been only 25 known cases. He was admitted to Georgia Baptist Hospital with a greatly swollen abdomen.

In an operation known as nephrectomy, physicians removed the youth's left kidney and found it contained 5,100 cc's of fluid. The previous record in such cases was 3,800 cc's, approximately four quarts.

Staff doctors pronounced the operation a success.

Soviets Slay 45,000 Nazis In 15-Day Push

By HENRY C. CASSIDY.

MOSCOW, Thursday, Aug. 27. (P)—A Red army counterattack northwest of Moscow to relieve pressure on imperiled Stalingrad was reported officially early today to have killed 45,000 Germans in a 15-day "second front" push that recaptured 610 localities and regained from 25 to 30 miles of territory.

Soviet troops under General Gregory Zhukov, who turned the Germans back from Moscow last fall, were reported fighting at the gates of Rzhev, 120 miles northwest of the Red capital, after retaking the towns of Karmianovo, Gorodishche, and Zubtsov.

Five German divisions were reported to have suffered heavy losses and nine others were routed by the Red army.

It still was too early to determine the effects of this huge drive on the still sorely critical Stalingrad front, where a million Nazi army was assaulting the approaches to that vital Volga city from two directions.

Midnight Communiqué.

A midnight communiqué issued after the special announcement telling of the drive on the Kalinin and western fronts, said:

"In the area northwest of Stalingrad intense battles continue. The enemy has concentrated large forces of tanks and infantry and under cover of his air force is continuously attacking our positions."

"Our troops are repelling enemy attacks as well as launching counterattacks upon the German Fascist troops."

Deep in the Caucasus the Germans were acknowledged to have reached Mozdok, only about 55 miles west of the rich oil city of Grozny. The advance to Mozdok represented a 40-mile Nazi gain from the Prokhladenski sector to the west, but the Russians said fighting was continuing in the latter area.

Soviet troops still were hanging on the German flanks northwest of Stalingrad inside the Don river loop itself at Kletskaya, but the main Nazi drive had passed that city to cross the Don for a bloody tank and infantry descent on Stalingrad.

Stalingrad Struggle.

The Red Army also was battling stoutly southwest of Stalingrad in the Kotelnikovsk sector, where the communiqué said "Soviet forces are holding the enemy on assault and wearing down his manpower by repeated counterattacks."

Sixty-two Nazi tanks were reported hit by one Soviet unit in this sector, and a second unit destroyed 13 others and killed 500 Germans in the fighting below Stalingrad.

One rifle detachment fighting in the main struggle northwest of Stalingrad was reported to have destroyed at least 29 German tanks.

In this flat sandy expanse between the Don and the Volga rivers hundreds of German bodies littered the approaches to Stalingrad. The Germans were believed to be only 30 miles from the city, but the communiqué did not disclose the exact distance. Scores of tanks became funeral pyres for their crews.

Pay-as-You-Go' Tax Collection Plan Rejected

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—

Bowing to Treasury objections, the Senate Finance Committee voted to 3 to 3 today again incorporating in the new revenue bill the Rumf "pay as you go" plan of collecting individual income taxes but acted to retain a house-approved five per cent withholding levy on wages, interest and dividends.

The latter levy, to become effective next January 1, would provide a measure of advance collection since the amount paid in during the year would be credited against the total income tax due from each individual on March 15, 1944. The levy would be increased to 10 per cent on January 1, 1944.

Chairman George, Democrat, Georgia, said the committee had agreed to simplify the collection of this tax as much as possible by permitting employers to make deductions in $10 wage bands instead of figuring each individual's liability to the penny.

He said the committee had agreed to limit the withholding collections on interest and dividends by exempting bond and coupon interest, as well as small dividends paid by building and loans associations, etc.

Talmadge Ignores Arnall's 20 Queries

By LAMAR Q. BALL,
Constitution Staff Writer.

BAINBRIDGE, Ga., Aug. 26.—The touring Talmadge show paused for a matinee performance, with all the Talmadge trimming, in the city square here this afternoon.

There was "Fiddlin' John" Carson, patting his foot, scraping a bow over the fiddle and singing in that cracked voice. His unfortunate selection for the overture was "Everybody Has Left Me But That Good Old Dog of Mine."

There were the hired hands who travel along with the Talmadge sound truck and stand close to the microphone as they applaud and shriek and roar through cuffed hands: "You tell 'em, Gene."

There were the state employees, all on tour and not in the state capitol or wherever they are paid to go.

There was the timid re-appearance of John Nahara, the exiled bodyguard who was told to scream at the "tear gas battle of Statesboro."

Nahara, the burly, waddling strong-arm boy who had pictured a rosy future for himself out of some loyal tough guy performances in the current campaign, sat alone in an automobile parked against a curb on the edge of the square.

He looked unhappy. He obeyed the orders of his commander-in-chief, however, and did not participate in the raucous effort to overdo the Ellis Arnall appearance here last night, when the square was overrun with men, women and children who were not here today.

Talmadge's crowd this afternoon was, according to a poll of Bainbridge citizens, about half the size of the Arnall crowd the evening before.

Talmadge's platform was half the size of Arnall's, the rostrum this afternoon having been one 10-ton truck, while two 10-ton trucks

Truck Driver Risks Life To Prevent Blast

The story of a 27-year-old truck driver who literally drove an explosion away from a building at the Bell bomber project to save the lives of workers was told yesterday when the man was commended for his heroic action by Lieutenant Colonel E. Randall Jr., Army engineer in charge of construction at the project.

The truck, carrying 200 gallons of gasoline which might have exploded at any moment, caught fire while drawn up beside a motor shovel for refueling.

John R. Duncan, of 87 Baker street, hurried through a curtain of flames which sprang up around his truck, got back into the cab and raced the machine away from the building.

As soon as the truck was in the open, Duncan jumped out to help other workers extinguish the flames. He again risked being blown to bits as he helped put out a blaze which had spread to the shovel.

1,000,000 Troops a Month Being Carried on U. S. Rails

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(P)—

(NANAS) The Army transportation corps is moving more than 1,000,000 soldiers a month within the United States.

It is accomplishing this stupendous job four or five times greater than at any time during the last war—with relatively little disruption of civilian travel and little decrease in comfort, except for some unavoidable crowding.

Up to the present, there have been very few instances where a soldier has been moved overnight without even providing with a Pullman berth.

In the last war, transportation corps officers explain, the great majority of soldiers made only two moves by train—from home to training camp and from camp to port of embarkation. Now nearly everyone makes six moves—from home to induction station, from station to a reception center, then to a replacement training center, then to a camp, and finally to a port. In most cases, all this movement is by train. When the Army speaks of moving 1,000,000 men a month it does not necessarily mean that 1,000,000 separate individuals have been transported. One man may be shifted several times.

There has been more movement within the country in the last five months than in the first 15 months of the last war.

Travel by sleeper has been even times heavier than by coach.

In the other war, the condition was just the opposite. Many of the moves now are transcontinental.

This vast amount of travel, with little disruption of routine railroad operation, is possible only by the closest sort of co-ordination, making the utmost use of all equipment possible, and complete co-operation between railroad officials and the Army. The whole intricate system has been worked out mostly in the last two years during which time the passenger division of the transportation corps has increased from one officer and 40 civilian employees to many times that number.

Now a commanding officer's responsibility for the "impediment" of his outfit never ends.

He can keep his eyes on it at all times and if any of it is lost there is nobody else on whom to shift the blame.

Another reason for the new transportation policy is the determination that a command shall be ready for action at all times, regardless of the probability that it will have any occasion to fight.

Also in this war, due largely to

Big Sea Battle

Is Continuing,

Navy Reveals

'Too Early To Estimate Outcome of Solomons Engagement.'

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP) The Navy's communiqué number 113, based on reports received up to 2 p.m. eastern wartime, August 26, follows:

"South Pacific."

"It is still too early to estimate the outcome of the battle at sea being fought off the Solomon Islands, but reports to date reveal that our forces at Guadalcanal are holding their positions in the face of strong enemy thrusts and in each action have inflicted heavy damage on the attacking Japanese forces."

"During the previously recorded shelling of Guadalcanal island on the night of August 23-24 (Washington date) our dive bombers damaged an enemy destroyer."

"The enemy force of transports, cruisers and destroyers which approached Guadalcanal from the northward on August 24 (Washington date) was attacked by United States Marine and Naval aircraft based on Guadalcanal. In addition to the cruiser which was previously reported burning fiercely, one destroyer and four additional ships were left burning and the transport which was reported to have been hit during this attack was later seen abandoned as the enemy force withdrew."

"The performance of our fighter aircraft based at Guadalcanal has been outstanding. As previously reported, a strong enemy air attack on Guadalcanal, during the afternoon of August 23 (Washington date), was intercepted by these fighters; 21 enemy planes were shot down. Our loss was three planes. On August 25 (Washington date) Guadalcanal was attacked by 16 two-motored bombers escorted by 12 'Zero' fighters. Our fighters met this force and shot down seven bombers and five 'Zero' fighters. Our loss was one fighter."

"The results, to date, of the battle for the retention of our foothold in the southeastern Solomons are encouraging."

August 24. Other vessels in this fleet withdrew.

Indications were that this invasion force was one of two fleets the enemy had thrown into the struggle. The other has been operating to the northward in a major sea battle. That fleet, which includes airplane carriers and warships, has been engaged by United States forces for two days.

"It is still too early to estimate the outcome of the battle at sea being fought off the Solomon Islands," the Navy's communiqué reported. At least half a dozen enemy vessels previously had been reported damaged in that battle.

Americans Holding.

As for the situation at Guadalcanal, the American forces are holding their positions in the face of strong enemy thrusts and in each action have inflicted heavy damage on the attacking Japanese forces."

The reference to "strong enemy thrusts" was interpreted as covering the over-all scene of the Japanese attempt to move back into the Solomon Islands, key spot in the Pacific which could control approaches to New Zealand and Australia.

High praise came from the Navy for the work of U. S. fighter planes based on Guadalcanal. The communiqué declared "the performance of our fighting aircraft based on Guadalcanal has been outstanding."

Even warmer words came from a naval spokesman who said that "noteworthy in the battle thus far is the magnificent performance of fighter aircraft based on Guadalcanal."

21 Planes Shot Down.

As previously reported, those fighters shot down 21 Japanese planes in a strong enemy attack on Guadalcanal Sunday. Three American planes were downed.

On Tuesday, the United States fighters went into the air to meet an attack by 16 two-motored bombers, escorted by 12 Zero fighters. They defeated the enemy, shooting down seven bombers and five of the swift Zeros. One U. S. plane was shot down.

Eleven Enlist In 2d Atlanta Navyator Unit

Total in New 'Rambling Wreckers' Squadron Now Reaches 27.

Atlanta's second "Navyator" Squadron—"The Rambling Wreckers"—moved nearer completion yesterday as the Naval Aviation Cadet Selection Board announced the enlistment of 11 more young men from the Atlanta area.

The new enlistments, including nine men from the city and two more from Stone Mountain, bring to 27 the total number enrolled for the "Rambling Wreckers" who will train together as a unit.

Sixteen members of the squadron were sworn into service last Saturday night at the Navy Wings of Gold Flight Party along with the 30 men who comprise the first Navyator Squadron called the "Axis Crackers." Only three vacancies remain to be filled in the "Rambling Wreckers" unit, before organization of the third or "Cracker-Jap" Squadron will begin.

The 11 new enlistees are Joseph Coleman, Lustral, 132 Runson road; Eugene Webb Hope, 922 Amsterdam avenue; Verlyn Harris Brannah, 180 Interlochen drive; Tom Watson Garrett, 1595 McLendon avenue; Robert Layton, 1116 Eas Confederate avenue, S. E.; Thomas Jackson, 2130 Boulevard drive; James Barrett McLendon, 2168 Pryor road; Leamon Galveston Gilbert, 1070 Colquitt avenue; James Bergen, 1095 Cascade avenue, S. W., and Andrew Rowell Sackett and Hugh Sled Jordan, both of Stone Mountain.

Completion of the "Rambling Wreckers" will mark the half-way point in the drive to enlist and organize four Atlanta "Navyator" Squadrons of 30 men each, to train and fly together in the Navy as units. High school graduates who are single, 18 to 27 years of age, and physically fit, are eligible, and men from Fulton and DeKalb counties are eligible to join the Atlanta squadron.

U. S. Tankers Get Their Men, Colonel Says

American Dreadnaughts Perform Best With Yankee Crews.

By WILLIAM F. BONI.
WITH THE U. S. ARMY ON DESERT TRAINING MANEUVERS, Aug. 26.—(P)—The United States Army's weapons, properly used, can beat anything the Axis nations have put on the firing line so far.

—This from Colonel Edwin W. Pilbourn, recently returned from a year's mission in Africa and the Middle East.

"Our equipment is every bit as good as theirs right down the line," Colonel Pilbourn said today shortly before leaving this desert training area to become a combat commander in a new armored division.

"It is as good in planes, tanks, guns, wheeled vehicles as anything else you can think of. The difficulty is that in Africa it has not always been used properly. To cite only one example, the British accustomed to their own slower, more cumbersome tanks, did not take advantage of the greater speed and maneuverability of the first tanks they got from us. Instead, they tried to slug it out with the heavier German tanks and, as might be expected, were beaten."

Manned by American crews, on the other hand, United States-made tanks have given a notable account of themselves in African combat.

medical supplies are also urgently needed there," McLane said. "He said the Canadian military prisoners were lodged in huts on the north point of Hongkong Island. The principal concern of civilian interests remaining there was food, McLane said.

Customs men completed late in the day the tremendous job of inspecting and clearing 16,000 pieces of baggage aboard the Gripsholm which they said was the greatest to reach New York on any exchange vessel.

It was believed that about 250 more passengers would be disembarked during the night and that the remainder would probably be cleared tomorrow.

What mission may be slated next for the Gripsholm was not definitely known, but Secretary of State Hull indicated in Washington that arrangements might be made for another trip to pick up Americans still interned in the Orient.

Japs Impressed By Tokyo Bombing

Montreal, Aug. 26.—(P)—The American bombing of Tokyo "seemed to make a deep impression" on Japanese morale, E. D'Arcy McGree, chargé d'affaires at the Canadian legation in that city, said on his arrival here today.

He headed a party of 69 Canadians from Japan and Japanese-occupied territory after a two-month trip aboard diplomatic exchange liners.

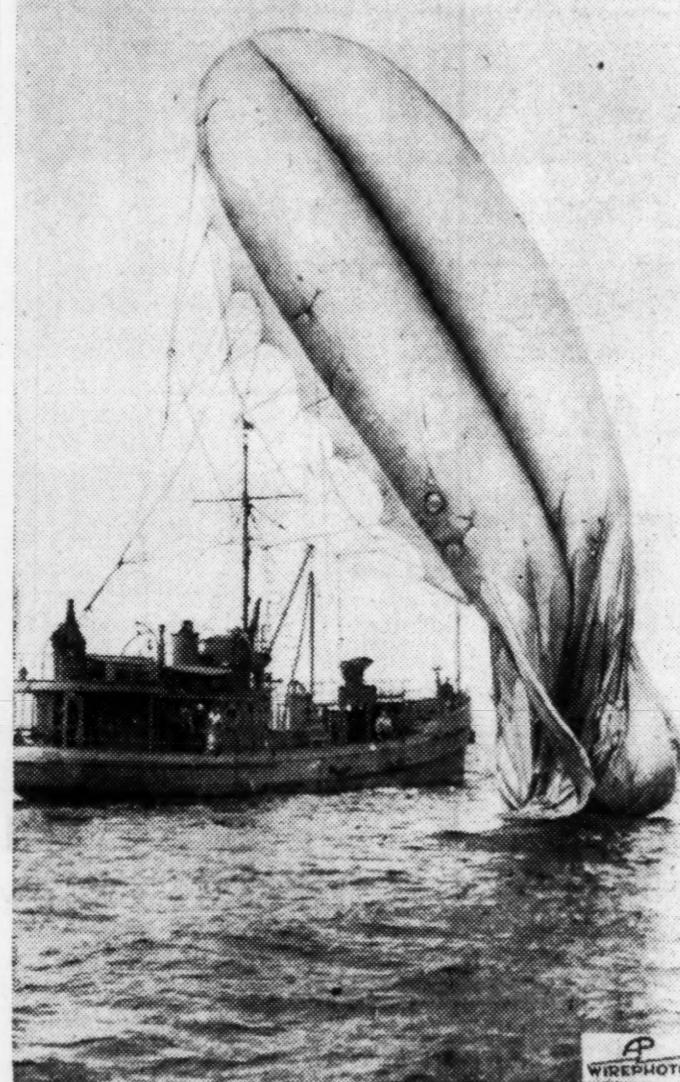

During his closely guarded and restricted excursions in the streets of Tokyo after the bombings and from the reaction of the legation servants, McGree said he gained the impression the bombings had their effect on the Japanese.

However, the Japanese did not comment in his presence, and while the English-language propaganda newspaper ran long stories on the raid, making impressive claims as to the number of planes shot down, McGree said: "I saw only one plane, which I believe was American, flying very low, which might possibly have been in difficulty."

Plea for Convict Army Unit Forwarded to Washington

OMAHA, Aug. 26.—(P)—A Missouri convict's proposal to form an Army division consisting entirely of convicts and named the "Black Legion" has been forwarded by Major General Frederick E. Uhl to the adjutant general department in Washington for consideration.

The convict, Harry R. Justice, made the proposal in a letter to the commander of the Seventh Service Command.

Justice backed up his proposal by saying there are more than 200,000 prisoners in the nation, many prisons are drilling men, and the physical fitness among prisoners probably is better than in the average community.

Butter, dehydrated to its pure fat content, is being shipped from New Zealand to Great Britain.

You have no idea of the torture, the heartache, the disappointment and the longing that grips these men's souls every time they hear" about the war effort, the convict wrote. He said he realized most people do not want their sons in service with convicts and suggested combat uniforms be different from all others.

"Just give us the training and equipment to fight, and show us where to begin," Justice added. "And if when we come home America wants us to finish our sentences we will do that, too."

"Incomplete returns showed Doxey and Collins running close together. Eastland served in Washington after the death of Senator Pat Harrison."

James O. Eastland, who served 90 days in the senate last year by appointment from Mississippi, came out far ahead of his opponents, Senator Wall Doxey and Representative Ross Collins, and will oppose one of them in a runoff. Incomplete returns showed Doxey and Collins running close together. Eastland served in Washington after the death of Senator Pat Harrison.

Roosevelt To Make 3 Important Talks Within 8 Days

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—President Roosevelt today arranged a crowded speaking schedule, keyed to wartime problems and compressing three top-flight addresses into eight days.

Investigation Launched Into $50,000 Blaze

Forsyth Street Fire Endangers Entire Section of Buildings.

An investigation has been launched into a three-alarm fire which broke out early yesterday at 76 Forsyth street, causing damage estimated around $50,000 and endangering an entire section of downtown Atlanta.

The building was completely covered by insurance, it was reported.

Fire Chief C. C. Styron, who directed firemen on the scene in a two-hour battle against the spreading flames, said the fire apparently broke out in the rear of the building. Fire and water destroyed the stocks and equipment of the Smokehouse, the Trick Novelty Company, the Washington Hatters and the offices of the Local Loan and Thrift Company.

The fire, which started in the entrance to the Rialto theater, was drenched with water and filled with smoke, as was the Morris Brothers Luggage Shop.

The fire had good headway when it was noticed by a policeman on the beat and reported, Chief Styron said.

Smoke and water also damaged the nearby Haas-Howell building, the fire chief said.

Among first to reach the scene were United States Marines, whose recruiting offices on the second floor of the Rialto building were destroyed by the fire. Marine Sergeant Leon Prensky managed to save some valuable papers and records.

New recruiting offices were opened a short time later in room 1104, Atlanta National Bank building.

Mayor William B. Hartsfield, who came down soon after the alarm was sounded, and Chief Styron praised efforts of firemen in preventing the flames from spreading. No one was injured.

... A Combination Of the Qualities That Go To Make a GOOD JUDGE
... And One in Whom You Can Place Your Confidence

The proper administration of the duties of Judgeship of the Civil Court requires THE COMBINATION of character, ability, experience and temperament... no ONE of these characteristics would indicate the proper qualifications. The functions of the Civil Court, in the issuance of warrants as well as in the hearing of civil cases, demand that the Judge handing down these decisions use extreme judgment to prevent innocent persons being made victims of hatred and jealousy, and at the same time apply the correct interpretation of the laws against those in the wrong.

The Civil Court handles much important litigation and it is important that its Judges be men who are fitted to perform its many functions in an efficient, impartial manner. Before the office was made elective in 1936, Judge Hathcock was appointed upon the unanimous recommendation of a group of Georgia's most eminent jurists, and has since served the people continuously in a highly satisfactory manner. His record of decisions upheld by the Court of Appeals and the Supreme Court of Georgia is as good, and in many cases better, than any judge in Georgia in these courts. His record is undeniably an outstanding one.

No lawyer can or will say that Judge Hathcock is not fully qualified, and every litigant who has appeared in this Court will tell you that his interpretations of the law have always been made in a kind, courteous manner, yet fairly and impartially. These are times when we need men of Judge Hathcock's experience and ability, men who have been tried and measured up to their full responsibility. Let's return Judge Hathcock to the Civil Court!

Arnall Predicts Raise in Teachers' Pay Before Election

Special to THE CONSTITUTION.

SYLVESTER, Ga., Aug. 26.—Speaking to an enthusiastic audience of south Georgia farmers, Ellis Arnall predicted here this afternoon that Governor Talmadge will raise the salaries of state school teachers before the election in September.

Clower Asks For Probe of Asphalt Sales

Governor Can Direct an Investigation, Says Aide to Arnall.

ROME, Ga., Aug. 25.—(P)—Assistant Attorney General E. J. (Sandy) Clower announced tonight he has been sworn in as a lieutenant in the United States Navy and is awaiting call to active duty.

Clower in an address in behalf of the gubernatorial candidacy of Attorney General Ellis Arnall called on Governor Talmadge "to direct and authorize the attorney general" to institute an investigation into the sale of asphalt to the state by Charles Redwine, Talmadge's campaign manager.

Clower declared "in recent days in the press you have seen what may, to you, have seemed a bold request" by Redwine "to investigate his sales of asphalt to the state."

Clower called attention to criticism of Redwine by Arnall and his declaration that an investigation would be made if he was elected Governor, and Redwine's reply inviting an immediate investigation.

"Charley Redwine knows and Gen. Talmadge knows that when the legislature is not in session the Governor is the only person who can direct the attorney general to make an investigation of these asphalt prices and dealings," Clower declared, pointing out the attorney general was not empowered to make such an investigation without direction.

He then called for such a direction by the Governor to the attorney general and said if it was made "the investigation will begin tomorrow."

Clower said that his "motives in making this speech will probably be impugned by the opposition" on the grounds he wants to hold his job.

The answer to that is this: Sandy Clower now has a job with Uncle Sam . . . on July 15, 1942, I was sworn in as a lieutenant in the United States Navy and am now awaiting active duty orders to be of service to my country."

"If he does raise the salaries of teachers, it will be because I've smoked him out about that $10,000 surplus he claims the state has," Arnall declared.

"If he has the surplus, he could raise the pay of teachers, increase old age pensions and do something for the counties without increasing taxes one cent."

89-Cent Pension Raise.

"I've already got old age pensions increased 89 cents a month and I hope that when the teachers get their raise it will be more than 89 cents a month."

Arnall added that he did not know whether the Governor could claim a $10,000,000 surplus when the state owed more than that amount.

"If he does have that money, he is trying to keep it for himself and his 'cousins by the dozen,'" Arnall declared.

Farmers from Worth, Mitchell, Colquitt, Tift, Turner and Lee packed the courthouse and overflowed to the square to hear Arnall. They cheered loudly when he pledged anew to restore the University System to an accredited rating and to "return the government to the people of Georgia."

Crowd Praised.

In introducing Arnall, Colonel P. B. Ford, county attorney and former state senator, expressed amazement at the size of the turnout in the face of the harvesting season and the farm labor shortage.

"You have come here," Colonel Ford declared, "because 90 per cent of the people of Worth county are direct descendants of people who came over here to escape dictators."

"So many of your sons are fighting on world battlefronts to preserve freedom that the sun never sets on the American flag."

"Another reason you came is that you are tired of the Talmadge 'pardon racket.' You resent the fact that you give your time to sit on a regular court jury and convict man after a fair trial and then see him free on the streets two days later."

"You also came here to hear a man talk who can restore our University System. You are proud of Georgia's schools. And you know the only way to get them back on an accredited list is to vote for Ellis Arnall."

"You are here because Arnall stands for decent government."

Judge C. W. Monk, of the Sylvester city court, introduced Colonel Ford.

Canada Lifts Price Ceiling On Newspapers

Leaves Press Free To Fix Rates, Safeguard Revenues.

OTTAWA, Aug. 26.—(P)—The wartime Prices and Trade Board announced today removal of the overall price ceiling from Canadian and imported newspapers, magazines and periodical publications in general, leaving the press free to adjust rates and safeguard its revenues.

The exemption applies to newsstand and street sale prices and to subscription rates. Advertising rates already are exempt.

In announcing its decision, the board said a careful survey by the administrator of publishing, printing and allied industries showed that while larger revenues had offset higher operating costs in 1940 and 1941, revenues recently had suffered a "serious decline."

"There are too many variations of circumstances to deal with each case individually so as to maintain a control of price," the board said. "Accordingly, it has been decided to remove the over-all price ceiling and leave the press free to adjust rates and safeguard its revenues so that the freedom and independence of the press may be preserved."

"This decision brings the Canadian regulations into conformity with those of the United States, where newspapers, magazines and periodicals were from the outset exempted from the price ceiling."

Votes of Eight Counties May Become an Issue

By the Associated Press.

If Georgia's gubernatorial race should be a near tie, the way of counting unit votes in eight counties may turn out to be a heated issue.

Four counties are going to lose two electoral votes each, and four other counties are going to gain them.

It's more or less an academic question at present whether they lose the votes in this election or wait until next year to lose them, but if the race is very, very close, and if the majorities in the counties are turned out that way, there could be the basis for one of the fiercest political disputes the state ever heard.

4 Lose One Each.

It candidate "X" won the counties which are losing unit votes, and the election were so close that the way of counting would turn the tide, then he naturally would want them counted as four-unit counties. But his opponent wouldn't.

The question, with all the "ifs," was put to state Democratic executive committee officials today, and they admitted the situation could present a problem.

"It is true," said one who requested that his name not be used, "that a situation could arise where those votes could have important bearing on the Governor's race, but in this case that possibility is so remote as to be unworthy of consideration."

The same committee member said that it was the opinion of members now that the unit vote total of the September primary should be consolidated on the basis of present representation in the general assembly.

"The present house will continue in effect until the legislature convenes again in January," he said, "when the newly elected members are sworn in."

"That being the case, we feel now that the present set-up should determine the consolidation."

"After the new legislature meets, of course, the reapportionment act as approved by the 1940 general assembly would apply."

Russians Open Second Front

crews, but the Nazis continued to namesake city of the leader of all roll big reserves forward.

Counterdrive!

The big Soviet counterdrive against the Nazi "hedgehog" defenses on the east bank of the Don last week smashed ahead for a second time, fighting a running battle with Red army tanks. Finally the attacking phalanx was checked, at least temporarily, and the Russian lines reformed on the northwest approaches to Stalingrad.

The Germans have held this strongly fortified area throughout the winter despite Russian gains to the north and south of it.

Besides mauling or routing 14 Nazi divisions in this 15-day-old offensive, the Russians claim they have:

Destroyed 324 tanks; captured 250 tanks, 757 guns, 1,615 machine guns, 11,100 rifles and a quantity of smaller arms and many vehicles.

Shot down 250 enemy planes in air combat and by anti-aircraft fire.

Destroyed and damaged 296 enemy planes on the ground.

In addition, the special communiqué said, six German infantry divisions, two motorized divisions and one tank division were routed and heavy losses were inflicted on two more tank divisions and three infantry divisions.

The area around Rzhev has been reported strongly fortified by the Germans, who held onto the city during the long winter campaign in which they lost much ground to the Russians.

Heavy Fighting. In recent weeks the Germans in official announcements have told of heavy fighting on the Kalinin and western fronts but this was the first official Russian indication of action on such a large scale.

Workers Drilled. A direct dispatch from Stalingrad to Izvestia told of the civilian reserves which the Army has trained to fill the ranks in the final defense of the Volga gateway, just as the workers of Leningrad fought a year ago.

From such factories as the Stalingrad tractor plant and the Red October Metal Works the laborers have been drilled under battle conditions in the use of rifles, automatic guns, machineguns and mortars. Now, said Izvestia, all these fighters are ready to stand with the active Army.

Red Star, the Army organ, urged: "Show no fear, no panic, in the struggle with the enemy! Defend our cities!"

Amid the generally black picture painted by military dispatches from the south was one flicker of hope—a Red Star report that the battles in the mountains to the south had entered a new phase now that the Germans have reached the main barrier of the Caucasus range.

Until recently the campaign has been fought on the broad plains of the north Caucasus and in the foothills of the mountains which stretch from the Black sea to the Caspian.

Grozny, the oil field center now within 85 miles of the battle zone, lies on the northern slopes of the mountains, but only a few passes lead through the towering range to Baku, Tiflis and Batum.

"Natural conditions of the rough terrain have greatly changed the position of this sector of the front," said Red Star. It pointed out that the mountains had blocked German tanks and motorized infantry, and that the enemy was forced to operate in separate columns.

The article described ambushes, counter-attacks and encircling maneuvers as the Red Army tactics against these enemy forces in the valleys, ravines and passes.

"In late and small battles of extermination and constant wearing down of the enemy our units should make the enemy completely helpless in the mountains," said Red Star.

Survivor of Kent's Plane Crash Found Dazed Near Wreck

LONDON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—What happened to the Sunderland flying boat that carried the Duke of Kent to his death yesterday against a mountain in the Scottish highlands may be told by a flight lieutenant who turned up today as the sole survivor of the air crash in which it had been believed all the crew perished.

More than 24 hours after the plane crashed while taking the Duke on a war mission to Iceland, Lieutenant Andrew Jack, a 24-year-old Scot, was found dazedly stumbling through the heather.

From the tail-gunner's post he was thrown clear and had wandered about three miles from the scene, suffering burns on face, arms and legs but not seriously injured.

In all 14 were killed.

The Duke will be buried with full military honors but in privacy for the safety of the royal family, in the royal tomb house under St. George's chapel in Windsor Castle, where others of the reigning family lie.

The air ministry has launched an investigation into the crash of the plane in desolate country about 60 miles from the take-off.

It was reported in news dispatches that other planes have been wrecked in that area.

The pilot of the plane was said in semi-official sources to have been one of the most capable in the RAF.

The Chinese have taken a point four and one-half miles south of the strategic city in western Chekiang and also are attacking Japanese forces directly to the westward, the Chinese high command said.

Some quarters in Chungking expressed confidence that the Chinese soon would recapture both Chihhsien with its vast air base built by 200,000 coolies, and Lishui, second best site from which to launch air attacks against Japan and Kiangsi provinces, it was reported tonight.

The Chinese have taken a point four and one-half miles south of the strategic city in western Chekiang and also are attacking Japanese forces directly to the westward, the Chinese high command said.

The Chinese, who already have reported they have Lishui under siege, added tonight that Japanese troops who tried to push south from Sungyang in Chekiang province had been defeated and were fleeing back toward Lishui, 25 miles to the east.

Still other Japanese forces were declared by the Chinese command to have been crushed 15 miles northwest of Sungyang five days ago.

CRACKERS ARE LEATHERNECKS—Recruits of the new Marine Corps "Cracker platoon" are sworn into service at Five Points yesterday afternoon by Lieutenant Colonel John D. Arnall's Queries Are Ignored by Talmadge were used at the Arnall meeting last night.

Talmadge's welcoming committee was less than half the size of Arnall's—the attorney general having been greeted by enough persons to fill all the chairs arranged in rows on the two trucks parked side by side.

Talmadge's master of ceremonies this afternoon had a pleading note in his voice and was almost desperate as he begged citizens to come up out of the crowd and sit on the platform with the Governor.

"Paging Ellis Brown."

The desperate master of ceremonies, H. H. Smallwood, member of the Decatur county board of education, had a coaxing note in his voice as he implored:

"Is Ellis Brown in the audience?" Mr. Brown wasn't. "Will Mr. Brown please come up on the platform?" No one came up, so apparently Mr. Brown wasn't.

Smallwood scanned the crowd and called: "Is Judge P. D. Rich here? Won't he come up here?" Is Dr. Walker here? Won't he come up?"

And the frantic Smallwood went through a roll call—possibly of the Decatur rolls: "Mr. J. M. Simons, Dr. McCord. We'd like to have Mr. E. W. Cox come to the stage, Mr. Cliff Hooten, Mr. Carl Nichols."

Five Go Up.

The cry went on and on and about five men braved the perils of the rickety ladder which led to the stage.

Smallwood, in his introductory remarks, deplored that the Talmadge introduction would not be so "brilliant as the one we had last night."

"There were lawyers, judges, our mayor—men of great ability to greet the visitor last night. I was afraid that I would not be able to introduce Governor Talmadge fittingly. Then I suddenly realized that Talmadge needs no introduction."

He called up the Governor and sat down.

Talmadge ignored 20 questions Arnall had left here last night in an effort to get the Governor to discuss the real issues of the campaign.

Tom Arnold, Talmadge's attorney, said after the meeting: "Oh, were you all expecting the Governor to answer those questions?" and that was that.

Talmadge apologized as he started to talk that his speech would be the same that had been delivered every day and every night. The same speech he delivered in near-by Thomasville this morning, broadcast over a radio in Bainbridge.

It was the same speech—the attack on the newspapermen. The flourishing of the bundles of checks; how his heart bleeds for the school teachers and the old age pensioners, and so on.

He added a new note only when he said:

Poll By Justices.

"They're bragging about that justice of the peace poll. I was talking to a justice today and he'll tell you about it."

He didn't say who the justice was or what the justice would say about the poll that was printed in the official newspaper of the justices of the peace last week—Georgia Justice News.

The poll had shown Arnall leading Talmadge more than 2-to-1 and gaining every day.

Talmadge attempted to get over by inference today that there is nothing to this poll, which both he and his son, Herman, grew lyrical over two years ago when it predicted his election. The justice poll has never been wrong since it was started.

Couldn't Take Opinions.

Talmadge also explained today that he has been tied down by affairs in his office these last 18 months.

"Most Governors," he said, "have an attorney general to render legal opinions. But I was barely in office when our present attorney general announced he would oppose me for my re-election and he started running for office. I couldn't take his opinions."

In his efforts to described how he had helped Decatur county with state funds, he got his figures twisted to a degree where they were unintelligible.

But he hammered over his record for thrift.

He went through the race issue that he has explained as his reason for wrecking the university and school system.

"I only fired two of those professors, at that," he said, "someone else fired the eight or 10 others. But they're trying to blame me for firing all of them—so, I'll just take the blame."

After the meeting, Talmadge sat in a chair and shook hands with members of his audience.

Farm Labor Shortage

Reported in Sumter

AMERICUS, Ga., Aug. 26.—(AP) With cotton fields white and about a week to 10 days needed to finish picking peanuts, Sumter county Agent J. C. Luce reported that the farm labor situation here and in adjoining counties is serious.

Americus city police have been rounding up able-bodied men without apparent employment and 57 loitering cases have been made in the last 10 days. A good many of the defendants were reported taking jobs as farm hands.

The scarcity of labor has forced wages up, Luce said. Peanut shakers were reported being paid a record level of $1.25 to $1.50 a day or 10 cents a stack. Some farmers are using machinery in harvesting.

The Americus Times-Recorder said that "with the largest peanut crop in history to be harvested, cotton picking necessarily will be delayed this fall."

'Cracker Platoon' Is Sworn In

Recruits of the new Marine Corps "Cracker platoon" are "leathernecks" now.

They stood in line, 60 strong, at Five Points yesterday afternoon and were sworn in by Lieutenant Colonel John D. O'Leary, Atlanta Marine recruiting officer. Then they were guests of honor at a Red Cross benefit ball game at Ponce de Leon park between Atlanta and Birmingham.

Final farewell to Atlanta "for the duration" was said at a dance in the Biltmore hotel last night to the music of Bill Clark's orchestra. The detachment of paratroopers who staged the first "chute landing in Atlanta Tuesday also were guests at the game and the dance.

Will Leave Today.

The new "Cracker platoon" will entrain at 7 o'clock this morning for the Marine "boot camp" at Parris Island, S. C., and six weeks of tough training under hardened Marine noncoms. They will be trained together, Colonel O'Leary said, and it is possible they may serve together.

In swearing in the men, Colonel O'Leary warned that the "next eight to 10 weeks in 'boot camp' no doubt will be discouraging at times."

"You are embarking upon a serious business," he said. "These next few weeks of training as members of the United States Marine Corps will find you discouraged at times. But I know you will uphold the honor and traditions of the Marines, as well as the south and Atlanta."

"I feel sure that you will carry through."

Hartsfield Speaks.

Mayor Hartsfield congratulated the men, who volunteered for the "Cracker Platoon" within six days of the Marine recruiting office announced a 10-day drive to secure 60 enrollees.

"You are named in behalf of the people of Atlanta," the mayor said. "We are proud of you and we know you will be a credit to this city as well as to the United States Marines."

"This city you are representing is rich in the history of our country. It has been subjected to the terrors of bursting shells and cannot fire to Georgia."

"We are proud for you to bear this namesake and we know that you will be a credit to your country."

Max Cook, a former Marine and a member of the drum and bugle corps of American Legion Post No. 1, blew "retreat" as Marine Sergeants Jack J. Wallen and Samuel

W. Lee lowered the flag at Five Points. Then, as everyone stood at attention, Colonel O'Leary administered the oath:

Oath Given.

"I do hereby acknowledge . . . to have voluntarily enlisted as a private for general service in the United States Marine Corps for the duration of the war, unless sooner discharged by the proper authorities."

". . . And that no promise or assurance of any kind has been made to me concerning assignment to any particular duty or promotion during my enlistment."

"And I do solemnly swear that

LAWRENCEVILLE, Ga., Aug. 26.—Mrs. Pauline Holcomb Guthrie, 17, of Lawrenceville, died last night in an Atlanta hospital of injuries received in an automobile accident Tuesday afternoon near Decatur. Officers reported the driver of the car in which Mrs. Guthrie was riding apparently lost control of the machine.

She is survived by her mother, Mrs. John Holcomb, and several brothers and sisters, all of Lawrenceville.

Barrymore Bed Sells for $250, Dudley Glass To Serve Movie Studio as Prop

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—(P)—One of Barrymore's beds, and a very fine one it is, too, is worth $250 to a movie studio—as a prop.

A copy of a first edition of Holinshed's chronicle, printed in London in 1577, for which he probably paid a week's movie salary, was sold for $15.

Suburban Moonlight; Just as Beautiful As Out on the Farm

I think I never realized that moonlight could be just as bright and beautiful in Atlanta as out on a farm until the blackout Monday night.

Everybody's lights were out. We sat in darkness before the radio. But pretty soon the room wasn't so dark. The moonlight revealed shadowy shapes of tables and chairs. One window on the east formed a frame for a nocturne—gently waving trees against the sky.

Despite instructions I wandered out into the back yard. Out there it seemed a poor night for a blackout, so brightly visible were roofs and trees. If trees hadn't cut off the view I'm sure I could have picked out the tall white spire of a church several blocks away. But the fliers above said the moonlight didn't help them much in spotting landmarks in the city.

We city folk, I'm afraid, don't see much moonlight, except perhaps in that brief journey between the garage and the house door. If we're downtown the city lights dim the moon. If we are home we are indoors with all the lights on. And, because we are not farmers, few of us could tell whether the moon is new or full or growing or diminishing. We don't know and we're not interested.

Baseball Peanuts

Farmers will receive this year twice as much cash per ton for peanuts as they received last season, under government guarantees.

This is fine for the farmer and I rejoice with him. But what about baseball fans?

I haven't attended a ball game since catchers took 'em on first bounce, but addicts of the national sport have complained bitterly to me that inside the ball park a sack of gobblers brings a dime. It is the consensus of opinion that this is in defiance of ceilings, the Bill of Rights and the twenty-second amendment.

If the farmer gets twice as much per ton will baseball peanuts jump to 20 cents per bag? Now, gentlemen, restrain yourselves. We have plenty of war on our hands without a revolution in every ball park.

By questioning Jack Troy, who has to attend ball games whether he wants to or not, I learn that the sidewalk outside Ponce de Leon park is infested by peanut bootleggers who offer large paper bags full at a nickel a throw. Foresighted fans stock up outside. Sometimes, says Mr. Troy, the outside lads put on a sale—a double-header, or two bags for a nickel.

But not every fan is foresighted. When he is entering the park he feels no ardent desire for peanuts or a soft drink. He is interested only in watching a ball game, which seems somewhat infantile to me, but it takes all kinds of people to make a world as Thucydides remarked, which accounts for sports pages.

The careless fan therefore neglects to stock up on peanuts. A few moments later the man in the next seat opens a bag and starts munching. It is like the smell of fresh meat to a hungry lion. Our

SENATE BILL 1313.

Having devoted a half dozen columns to discussion of Senate Bill 1313, in which I opened the suggestion that this bill involves legislation of far-reaching and vital significance, and should, therefore, be carefully studied and discussed by the people; and having expressed my doubt of the wisdom of the federal government entering the field of general public education on the ground that federal aid would most likely lead to federal control, and that the public school system, in my opinion, should be supported and controlled by the states, counties, local school districts and municipalities, as at present; and having reproduced in this column two opinions favoring the bill, and two opinions opposing the bill; I wish now to close the discussion, so far as this column is concerned.

I hope the discussion has been of interest and value. It has to me. And I wish to herewith acknowledge the many other letters, and thank these friends for their response. I only wish this column's space was adequate to publish every letter received. I tried to select out four representative opinions, two on each side. I may add that the letters received were about equally divided between those favoring the bill and those doubting the wisdom of the bill.

This discussion is reassuring in the fact that it proves that we are still free to express our opinions, thanks to a free press; and may we be reminded that when we say a free press, we not only mean freedom of the press, but the willingness of the newspapers to provide a medium of public opinion without cost to the citizen who wants to say something about public questions. I sometimes wonder if we do acknowledge our sense of obligation and appreciation for this great service on the part of the press.

I have read most carefully every letter received from those who favor this bill, as I have read carefully all the speeches made in favor of the bill before the senate committee and elsewhere, as I have had opportunity to read them. Moreover, I have studied the discussions of federal aid for general public education for the past 25 years. This bill, as we all know, is not the first time this idea has been proposed. This bill does represent the most advanced stage of the effort to have the federal government enter the field of general education. And my guess is that the bill will pass.

But, with due appreciation of the arguments so ably offered in its favor, and with full acknowledgement of the inescapable necessity for more and better educational opportunity for our children in Georgia and throughout the south, I am clear in my own judgment that it will be far better for all concerned if we hold to our present method of supporting and controlling the public schools. I believe that federal aid would and should bring federal control, and I believe that democracy will be better served if the public school system is retained as a function of the state and its local units of government. I still believe that we pay for what we get, and that we will find the cost rather high when we relinquish the time-honored policy of our fathers in supporting and controlling the public school system. In any event, we will hope for the best.

Theaters Here Present Two New Pictures

Holdover, Return En- gagement Complete Movie Bill for Week.

"Eagle Squadron," a thrilling story of American pilots and British commandos, which opens at the Fox theater tomorrow, headlines the new movie fare this week. Another war drama, "Pacific Rendezvous," starring Lee Bowman and Jean Rogers, plays at the Rialto beginning today.

One holdover and a return engagement complete the bill. "Somewhere I'll Find You" enters its second week at Loew's Grand, and "Mrs. Miniver" returns to the Rhodes for a sixth week.

Fox

"Eagle Squadron," a stirring tale of the American boys who didn't wait for the United States entry into the war to get into the thick of action along with the RAF, starring Robert Stack and Diana Barrymore, opens at the Fox theater today.

Stack plays the role of a young flyer who joins the Eagle Squadron in England and later joins the commandos in a raid on the French coast. Miss Barrymore, in her screen debut, plays the part of a WAAAF captain.

The picture is designed as a tribute to the gallant American boys, many of whom have given their lives in the skies over Britain and Germany, who joined the famed "Eagle Squadron" in London at the outbreak of the war.

Rhodes

"Mrs. Miniver" is back in Atlanta for its sixth week. It opens today at the Rhodes theater.

Starring Greer Garson, Walter Pidgeon, Richard Ney and Teresa Wright, "Mrs. Miniver" is the dramatic story of the home front in England. It tells how their normal every-day life during peace times is changed overnight when the Nazis declare war on the world.

The gay English people are engaged in buying silly hats and expensive cars, they attend church, laughing and passing the neighborhood gossip. Their laughter turns to tears when the vicar of the church one morning tells them of the war declaration.

Rialto

The new feature attraction at the Rialto, starting a week's run today, is the MGM production, "Pacific Rendezvous," with Lee Bowman and Jean Rogers in the principal roles.

The picture tells the story of an enemy espionage ring in this country and how it is smashed by a young United States Navy officer of course with the assistance of Miss Rogers, an alluring young lady.

The central theme is about the code used for sending naval and military messages. The enemy agents get hold of a copy of the code which tells the location of the Pacific rendezvous for the supply ships and warships of the United States Navy.

Loew's Grand

Clark Gable and Lana Turner, those popular lovers of the screen currently appearing at Loew's Grand theater in "Somewhere I'll Find You," are making such a hit that Manager Eddie Penticost has decided to hold this picture for another week.

"Somewhere I'll Find You," probably Gable's last picture for the duration of the war, tells the story of two newspaper reporters (Gable and Turner) who find adventure and romance in the Far East. The finale of the picture is set in Batavia.

Prime Minister Of New Zealand Dines With F.D.R.

Pacific Plane Crash Is Fatal To Georgian

Quitman Parents Notified of Death of Son, Sergeant Randall.

Special to THE CONSTITUTION
QUITMAN, Ga., Aug. 26.—Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Randall, of Quitman, have received word from the War Department that their oldest son, Technical Sergeant Hermon Randall, was killed August 16 in an airplane crash in the southwest Pacific area.

This is the second message Mr. and Mrs. Randall have received from the War Department in recent months. The first telegram sent in December advised them their son had been wounded in the Pearl Harbor attack on December 7. Several weeks later a brief note from Hermon advised them his wounds were not serious and he would be in the hospital about 30 days.

Then in April they saw a picture in the paper where their son, along with 140 other Pearl Harbor heroes, was being decorated for gallantry during the Jap attack. Several weeks later Hermon sent his parents his medal, the Purple Heart, for safe keeping and advised them then he thought he was being transferred soon. He had recently been made crew chief.

Hermon enlisted in the Army in July, 1937, following his graduation from Quitman High and he had been stationed at Hickam Field about four years. After enlisting he stayed at Fort Benning for about a month before being transferred to Honolulu.

He is survived by his parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. T. Randall, and the following brothers and sisters: June, Frances, Joy, James, Bobby, Dick and Joe Randall.

Peanut Pickers 'Allotted' to Area

CAMILLA, Ga., Aug. 26.—(P)—The Georgia-Florida-Alabama Peanut Association said today that not all of the new mechanical peanut picking machines allotted to farmers in the southeastern states had been distributed.

The Agricultural Extension Service office in Athens recently reported that about 1,600 mechanical pickers had been distributed to farmers in Georgia, Alabama, Florida, South Carolina and Mississippi.

Lester Rogers, business manager of the GFA, said today that his organization had been "drafted" by the Department of Agriculture to distribute the pickers and was making an "extended effort to place them in critical areas."

Another Headquarters Of Doriot Is Bombed

VICHY, Aug. 26.—(P)—Another headquarters of Jacques Doriot's French popular party was bombed Friday in Paris.

The explosive was hurled against the front of the Doriot organization building in the Belleville section of Paris, a working class neighborhood, Paris officials said today. Damage was described as slight and there was no casualty.

It was the last reported violence against the turn-coat former Communist, who has dodged bombs for several months.

Laval Orders Blackout

VICHY, Aug. 26.—(P)—The Laval government ordered the blackout re-established in Vichy today following several nights in which planes were heard over the provisional capital.

Reports circulated here that an unidentified plane had bombed a passenger train in the Paris region early today, killing the engineer and fireman. Another report said 45 bombs fell in fields of the Nord department harmlessly.

Teacher Pay Increase Urged at Griffin
Special to THE CONSTITUTION
GRIFFIN, Ga., Aug. 26.—The September term of Spalding county grand jury will have presented to it a resolution passed by the Griffin board of education urging an increase in pay for Georgia teachers "in order to relieve a serious shortage of teachers" and "to maintain the public schools of Georgia at a fair level of efficiency."

The resolution, copies of which have been mailed to Governor Talmadge, the State Board of Education, and members of the general assembly, calls attention to the fact that all states adjacent to Georgia maintain a higher salary schedule for teachers than does the state of Georgia.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 26.—(AP)—Prime Minister Peter Fraser, of New Zealand, sat down at the White House table tonight for a stag dinner and Pacific war strategy session with President Roosevelt and a select set of officials representing the United Nations' leadership.

Planned in Fraser's honor, the dinner brought together most of the members of the cabinet, the diplomats who represent nations of the Pacific War Council, congressional leaders of both parties, top ranking officers of America's armed services and civilian leaders of the war effort.

President Secretary Stephen Early tabbed it a "business meeting," and said the discussions would deal with the war.

Invited by F. D. R.

Here on a 10-day stay at the invitation of the President, Fraser arrived today by plane from the west coast, which he reached yesterday by an undisclosed route. He was accompanied by Brigadier General Patrick J. Hurley, American minister to New Zealand.

Importance of tonight's session was stressed by the urging of the British who believe that it not be postponed because of the plane crash death of the Duke of Kent, youngest brother of the King of England.

Although the conversations were expected to cover the entire field of Allied war efforts, special stress was presumed likely to be laid on the southwestern Pacific struggle and New Zealand's part in it.

It was to be one of a series of such conferences dealing with war strategy in the Pacific zone. President Roosevelt has also invited the prime ministers of Australia and the Union of South Africa to come to Washington for discussions.

Praised U. S. Forces.

Fraser brought warm praise for American fighting men in New Zealand and the entire southwest Pacific, lauding the "fine account they are giving of themselves" in the Solomons and elsewhere. He said "they are on the very best of terms with our people down there."

The prime minister was to be an overnight guest at the White House, after having tea there this afternoon and dinner tonight.

In his company from the moment he landed was Air Commodore Robert Victor Goddard, chief of the Royal New Zealand Air Force, who arrived here last week to discuss war strategy in the New Zealand area. Secretary of State Hull, British Ambassador Lord Halifax, New Zealand Minister Walter Nash and other officials were among those meeting his plane.

Uruguay Acts To Co-operate With Brazil

'Common Defense Against Aggression' De- clared by Neighbor.

MONTEVIDEO, Aug. 26.—(P)—The Uruguayan government announced today that Uruguay and Brazil would co-operate in a "common defense against possible aggression."

Because of the close geographic connections of the two countries, it was said, the Uruguayan national defense ministry had been authorized to "adopt, in agreement with military authorities of Brazil, all measures designed for better efficiency in the common defense against possible aggressions."

The Uruguayan government also declared its "complete solidarity" with Brazil and said Brazil would not be considered as a belligerent "in the state of war to which it has been forced by Germany and Italy."

RIO DE JANEIRO, Aug. 26.—(P)—The former president of Argentina, Agustin P. Justo, went to the Brazilian embassy in Buenos Aires today and offered his services on any assignment as an honorary general in the Brazilian army.

Venezuela Extends 'Solidarity'

CARACAS, Venezuela, Aug. 26.—(P)—The foreign ministry announced today that Venezuela will treat Brazil as a nonbelligerent automatically under terms of a December 12 decree extending such treatment to any American nation that goes to war against the Axis.

Foreign Minister Caracciolo Parra Perez, commenting on Axis sinking of Brazilian ships, expressed Venezuela's "sincere sympathy and solidarity" with Brazil.

Argentina, Bolivia, Chile, Colombia, Paraguay and Peru have declared they regard Brazil as a nonbelligerent.

You heard what the President said about rubber. If you want to be able to ride a taxi in some later emergency, you must help us make our tires last and last and last.

Here's one vital way: Give the Dispatching Switchboard, WAlnut 0200, fifteen minutes warning of your trip.

They will then be able to send a taxi which has just dropped a fare somewhere near you, instead of "deadheading" a cab all the way out to your place from the garage.

That makes one trip do the work of two trips—on one set of tires, gasoline and general wear and tear. You can see how that will save on vital materials.

Atlantaans are co-operating splendidly on this. Let's keep it up! Taxis are vital in this town because of the unusual layout of main traffic arteries. So let's try to keep 'em rolling for the duration.

Charles P. Taft, assistant director of defense health and welfare, said more than 25 camps would be made available to state public health departments in 20 states, including Georgia.

This action was decided upon after "urgent appeals" from many areas that overcrowded detention quarters were preventing adequate treatment of arrested girls, Taft said. Each camp-hospital will accommodate from 100 to 300 infected girls, who will be kept under until completely cured.

Federal Aid.

Federal aid will be given to place these girls in legitimate industry upon leaving the hospitals, Taft said.

Dr. C. D. Bowdoin, in charge of the contagious disease division of the Georgia State Board of Health, said he "understood" the state board had proposed to sponsor renovation of three CCC camps as detention hospitals under a Federal Works Agency department program.

"However, we have not received official notification that any of these projects have been approved," Dr. Bowdoin said.

He explained that while old CCC camps would be "poorly adapted" as camp hospitals, the idea of building new hospitals over the state "is out of the question."

Problems Seen.

"We couldn't get the materials to build the hospitals and we can't get the staffs—much more than that," he said. "You must have someone there in charge of recreation, someone to guard the patients, doctors and nurses to see that they get the proper treatment and social workers to aid in their rehabilitation."

Under Georgia law, these camps would be ineffective unless the judges were willing to sentence arrested girls for periods long enough to insure their cure, Dr. Bowdoin declared. Prostitutes can be held under quarantine in the county in which they are arrested, he said, but they cannot be moved across a county line.

In Washington, Taft said his records showed a large number of those arrested were "inexperienced girls below the age of 22 who can be rehabilitated if given the proper case work, job training and employment opportunities."

The Atlanta venereal disease situation has been somewhat spot with the State Board of Health, and military authorities for several months. Army physicians rank Atlanta third high in the instances of venereal infection over the Fourth Service Command area. Columbus, Ga., is first, and Jacksonville, Fla., in second.

Million Troops A Month Moved On U. S. Rails

The Transportation Corps' handling of the traffic, there has been no piling up of troops at ports awaiting transportation. Because of the close co-ordination between the rail and ship divisions, it usually is known precisely when a vessel will be available and how many it can carry.

Troops intended for overseas are shipped from an interior station to so-called "staging areas." There are several of these around each of the larger ports of embarkation. Sometimes these are regular cantonments where barracks space is reserved, and in several cases they are camps especially constructed for the purpose. They are always within a day's journey of the docks. There the men are kept until the loading of the equipment and provisions is near completion. Then the troops are moved directly to the ship as soon as the word is given.

The close co-ordination has made it possible for railroads to keep up their regular time fairly well. Transportation Corps officers say. Few passenger trains have been held on sidings to make way for troop trains. By and large, the enormous troop movements have been surprisingly inconspicuous. A civilian might travel across the continent and hardly be aware that anything out of the ordinary was going on, unless he happened to be an experienced railroad man with considerable curiosity. For one thing, troop and passenger trains usually pass each other at night.

As the military traffic gets heavier, Transportation Corps officers say, it probably is inevitable that there will be some inconveniences for the traveling public. But there is a definite policy, which hardly existed in the last war, of reducing these to a minimum by deliberately taking them into consideration.

Pilot Club Plans Series of Dances For Service Men

Miss Kate Wheeler, chairman, Mrs. Ena Wrenn, co-chairman, Mrs. Elizabeth Moultrie, Miss Eugenia Faulkner and Miss Gladys Boulton, of the Pilot Club entertainment committee, are sponsoring a series of dances and other entertainments for service men. A dance was held at the Recreation Center of the Fourth Corps Service Command at Conley on Wednesday, and a dance will be held at the United Service Men's Club on Friday, August 28. A group of especially selected young ladies are being chaperoned for the dances by this committee.

A party was given for patients in Ward 21-A at Lawson General Hospital recently by this group. Another interesting service performed by the members is the clipping of pictures of soldiers, sailors and Marines appearing in Atlanta papers, which are sent to the families of these service men who live in other cities.

The life and health committee of the club, Mrs. Fay Barrett, chairman, announced that since May 1, over 600 hours have been spent by members of the Pilot Club in Red Cross training courses; 100 hours at Red Cross surgical units rolling bandages; more than a hundred hours at filter and control centers, and over a hundred hours performing miscellaneous duties involving war work.

Among those receiving recognition for outstanding work as volunteer workers at the Atlanta Filter Center are Mrs. Gene Berkley, Mrs. Carolyn Seivers and Mrs. Calleye Neese, who were presented their "wings" recently.

A color scheme of gold and white had the Georgia Tech colors, was carried out in the decorations for Mr. McCarty, a member of the faculty at Tech. Gold and white flowers were used throughout the house. Gold can-dela-bra in crystal holders tied with white ribbon adorned the table, which was centered with a three-tiered wedding cake topped by a miniature bride and groom. Exercises For After The Baby Comes

By Ida Jean Kain.

Women in general are beginning to be as prompt as the screen stars about getting back in shape after the baby's arrival. They are in a hurry to go back to their jobs and as soon as the doctor gives the word they start special calisthenics.

You have to get your doctor's permission, of course, but it is not unusual to take very mild exercise the day after the baby arrives. It's exercise merely to lie on your back and raise your head from the bed several times. Or, roll over and lie face downward for half an hour. When you do this you should have a pillow under the chest to protect the breasts.

On the third day you should be able to stretch your arms up overhead on the bed and lower down at sides. Repeat from two to six times, depending on your strength—and don't overdo!

If your case is normal and your doctor approves, you may increase your exercise slightly along toward the latter part of the second week. For example: Flex knees, rest feet on bed and pull up and in with the lower abdominal muscles as you raise the arms overhead on bed. Hold for a second, then lower arms to sides as you relax the abdominal muscles.

By the third week you may be equal to fairly active calisthenics. From the knee-flexed position just described, draw alternate knees up toward chest until thigh rests on abdomen. As the right knee is drawn up, the left foot should continue to rest on bed. Perform slowly and don't overestimate your strength. Six to eight times will be plenty.

From the same knee flexed position, raise feet clear of bed. First, hold knees together, then slowly separate as widely as comfortable. Hold, then bring together. Six times for this exercise.

Still lying on back, stretch legs down straight, heels together. Then bend the left knee out to side, leg on bed, and place foot on right leg near ankle. Slowly draw left foot up right leg until close to knee, then slide back down. Continue for three counts, then rest. Repeat with other foot.

This is the one time in your life that exercise is a downright necessity. Nature is not going to take care of toning and shortening those stretched muscles. You have to do that for yourself. But the amount of exercise you will have to take to get into shape depends mainly on how good you were about exercising long before you started to have a baby. The lazier you were then the harder you will have to work now.

By the fourth week you will probably be ready for the exercises in the leaflet "After the Baby Arrives." Send stamped return envelope for this set.

Even a waffle iron becomes a rare—and perhaps irreplaceable—treasure when Uncle Sam needs metal for war. So it's high time to pamper your iron. After using, brush with a stiff brush, wipe with a damp cloth, dry with a soft cloth, then slip into an oilskin bag.

When you come in out of the rain, don't put wet shoes by the radiator to dry. Heat wilts the leather—causes it to shrink. Stuff those shoes with paper or brace with shoe trees—then dry away from direct heat.

Leather is a material of war. The better the care you give your shoes the longer they will last. Help your state meet its War Bond quota by putting every penny saved into bonds and stamps.

Dr. Brady Discusses Existence of Gout

By Dr. William Brady.

Replying to a reader's query I said here recently:

"With a few colchicum was formerly official in the U. S. P.—it was made from colchicum seed—but has been dropped, probably because physicians are gradually coming to realize that it isn't worth a hoot for gout, because there is no such disease as 'gout,' that is, no disease caused by deposits of uric acid or salts of uric acid in the joints or other tissues."

Another reader submitted that to a physician he believes competent and fair-minded, and the physician made this comment: "Dr. Brady is wrong, in my opinion. There definitely is such a disease as gout, wine of colchicum still is used, antique though the formula is, and with excellent results in a good percentage of cases. Gout is the one form of arthritis which yields to dietary management because it apparently is a metabolic disease."

In their chapter on gout in Dunigan's "Diseases of Metabolism" (Saunders, '42) Drs. Bauer and Klemperer (professor and associate in medicine, Harvard) define gout as a "hereditary constitutional disease . . . characterized by recurrent acute arthritis" and say the arthritis may become chronic "and is caused by deposits of sodium urate (tophi) which may be found in many tissues," but in the same paragraph these eminent authorities finally admit that "the exact etiology of the disease is unknown." Etiology means cause, or more precisely, study of cause.

It is true that deposits of a uric acid salt (mono-sodium urate)—chalk-like masses—are often found in the tissues about joints and elsewhere, but in most instances persons having such topi, as doctors call the concretions, never had and have not now any ailment that even the most reactionary old timer could seriously call "gout" or uric acid diathesis—or anything of the sort.

I cite these eminent and recent authorities, who contradict themselves in the introductory paragraph of their contribution, because they seem fairly representative of the present consensus of the profession on the question of "gout."

I agree, however, with the physician who informed the reader that wine of colchicum still is a useful preparation although no longer included in the U. S. P. I believe this, or the active principle, colchicine, brings prompt re-

Greer Garson's Drama Teacher Wanted Her To Be a School Marm

By Harold Heffernan.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 26.—Off the celluloid cuff:

Don't take it too hard about Clark Gable, Cary Grant, Jimmy Stewart, Tyrone Power and all the other glamor boys going off into the armed services and leaving movie fans flat.

They'll be back. They must come back, at least some of them, for the film industry has been labeled "essential" and pictures without virile male stars won't draw a nickel's worth.

There's a plan afoot whereby all Hollywood enlistees or draftees in the hero ranks will serve much of their time for the duration making moving pictures. It will start functioning within a few weeks, say film row insiders with an ear to the Washington ground.

Everybody just about concedes at this writing that Greer Garson will tuck away that 1942 Academy award in a romp.

Pretty tough for anyone to top that "Mrs. Miniver" sequence where Greer captures the German aviator, or the one where she sobs out her agony over the death of her daughter-in-law.

And just to think! If Greer had taken the advice of her art and drama teacher at the University of London, she'd now be an ob-course, when we used to sit in the movie theater and gaze at a beautiful, quiet little short revealing all the beauties and wonders of Holland, Germany, Russia—even Japan.

This narrow escape was revealed the other day by Pilot Officer Ricky McCambezon, RAF, who's in the United States taking specialized flight training. He visited Greer at the studio and they reminisced about the days when they were schoolmarmes and the drama teacher said to Greer: "Frankly, young lady, I think you're wasting your time on this course. Most with real talent make their mark in the theatrical world. You'd better go back to tutoring. I understand you were pretty good at that."

Now we know those pros were all dopes when they made us take those courses over.

"It's true that for the duration my camera will be trained upon more localized scenes than in the past, but the enormous reservoirs of scenic beauty throughout the United States and points south of the border have been barely tapped by cameramen."

Last week, for instance, "Ritz" left on a trip through northern California and Oregon, intent on photographing the route of the Lewis and Clark expedition. He'll come back along the coast and possibly detour into Nevada.

"I'm red-hot for everything of beauty—except divorcees," he cracked.

MY DAY: Handicraft From Nicaragua

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

WASHINGTON, Tuesday.—Even at this season in Washington one has a few visitors from out of town. Yesterday afternoon, Senora De Samoza, wife of the President of Nicaragua, and her daughter, and Senora Donna Hena de Bayle, wife of the Nicaraguan minister, came to pay me a call. Senora De Samoza brought me two examples of work done by people in different parts of her country.

The needlework of the women, represented by lace and embroidery on some handkerchiefs, is really exquisite. The gold filigree work, done by people living near the coast, is also a work of art. She told me she obtained this lovely gold filigree necklace when she attended ceremonies in connection with the road being built from the United States to South America.

I suppose it will be a long time before it can be completed, but like the road to Alaska, just thinking about it fascinates me. The varied scenery, the different people—what a fascinating trip following that road will be! The road to Alaska also will be interesting to us, but I imagine very few will want to travel it during the winter months.

Last night we had a few guests at dinner and afterwards the men firmly told us that he had to go to work, but someone had provided what they prophesied would be an exciting film called "The Big Shot," so he agreed to stay with us for a little while.

It was not as much of a mystery story as he had hoped, and when he was over he sighed and said, "Well, now I shall have to work a little later than I intended to do," and went off into the night.

As a matter of fact, the film is really intended to show the difficulties which confront a man with a prison record. Once a man has a mark against him, very few people will give him a chance. The "Big Shot" in the film himself recognizes he would not be so keen to employ a criminal if he were doing the employing. He redeems himself in the end by being unwilling to let an innocent boy suffer in his place.

Going With Other Boys May Help Girl Make Up Mind

By Dixie George.

Dear Dixie:

I have been going with him for more than a year, in fact the entire time I have known him. He is a nice boy and I think he cares for me. He has shown me in many ways that he cared for me and has also asked me to marry him. He is in camp now in Dilworth, N. C. and it has been a long time since I have seen him, but he still writes me. Do you think it best to get married or wait?

UNDECIDED.

The only, and I think, most important point you failed to mention in your letter is this: Do you love him? I think that would be very important consideration. Think about this and ask yourself if you really love him, or are you thinking of marriage only because you know that he likes you and has asked you to marry him. Go around with some others and see what your reaction will be. While you are out, if your mind is still on the boy in camp, if nothing is interesting to you unless it concerns him, then I think that you will have a very good insight into your feelings.

Things are so upset now with the war, why not tell him you will marry him when he comes back?

If you love him now and expect to marry him I think that your marriage will have a better chance of being successful if you wait. I say this to you, for I do not think you have fully made up your mind about him. When you marry, remember you must be perfectly sure in your mind and heart. I do not think you are.

HOW TO OVERCOME BASHFULNESS

Dear Dixie:

We are two girls very much in love. The two boys do not know this however. We think that they feel the same way about us and are just bashful. We would like very much to become better acquainted with them, but we cannot seem to keep the conversation going. Dixie, if there is any advice that you could possibly give us to help, please do so, for this matter is constantly on our minds and worries us no end. Please help in a hurry!

WORRIED TEEN AGERS.

If the boys are bashful, then it is up to you two girls to more or less bring them out and make them the center of attraction.

When you are with them, play them up and make them the ones up with the spotlight is directed.

Make them do the talking and the place the questions. Ask their advice about this and that to boost their ego. Talk about things which you know they are interested in and that they will be able to discuss.

Try to forget about the love angle for awhile until you can get the two boys on a more informal and friendly understanding basis. When their bashfulness seems to be disappearing maybe they will realize that you are in love with them and will be a little more responsive.

Company Head To Forego Any War Earnings

Highly Paid Executive Declines Profits From War Work.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 26.—(P)—In an unusual contract, Thomas J. Watson, who was paid $462,519 as president and director of the International Business Machines Corporation in 1941, will forego any war profits earned in the future by the company from the manufacture of munitions, it was disclosed today.

In addition, Watson voluntarily reduced his annual percentage compensation from the company's earnings to 2 1/2 per cent, from 5 per cent, the corporation said in its annual report to the Securities and Exchange Commission.

It was the first action of its kind reported to the SEC.

The new five-year contract, dated January 1, stipulates that "no profit derived from the manufacture of munitions of war, as recorded in the books of the company under the title 'Ordnance Division,' shall be included in the ... additional payment to Mr. Watson." The percentage compensation is computed on earnings after certain deductions.

Watson's 1941 payment, which included $360,289 percentage compensation, $100,000 salary and $2,230 director fees, placed him third among the nation's highest paid persons.

His company's statement completed reports of the country's highest paying corporations. They show that the country's 10 top-salaried persons in 1941 were:

1. Louis B. Mayer, managing director of Loew's, Inc., $704,425.

2. Eugene Grace, president, Bethlehem Steel Corporation, $537,724.

3. Watson, $462,519.

4. Bing Crosby, radio and screen star, $400,640.

5. James Cagney, movie actor, $362,500.

6. Clark Gable, movie actor, $357,500.

7. Nicholas M. Schenck, president, Loew's, Inc., $334,204.

8. Fred MacMurray, movie actor, $299,333.

9. Bob Hope, radio and screen star, $294,166.

10. George Washington Hill, president, American Tobacco Company, $288,144.

Coroner's Jury Orders Release Of P.H. Sanders

'Justifiable Homicide' Ruled in Fatal Shooting of Son-in-Law.

A coroner's jury yesterday afternoon ordered the release of P. H. Sanders, 58, of 879 North Highland avenue, in the fatal shooting Tuesday night of his son-in-law, Alton H. Clay.

The jury reached a verdict of "justifiable homicide" after hearing testimony Clay had threatened to "wipe out" his father-in-law, according to Mrs. Paul Donehoo, Fulton county coroner.

The testimony also showed Clay had made similar threats against his wife, his four-year-old daughter and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Donehoo said.

He recognized them and touched their hands briefly.

Carol Ann, five; Alman Jr., four, and Anthony, two, greeted their father joyfully. Allen, one, burst into tears and had to be taken from the room.

The reunion resulted from a supreme court order granted over objections of the children's mother, who is charged with shooting Harrington during an argument last June.

Doctors say the young father has only a short time to live.

For weeks, while Harrington lay in a hospital, his estranged wife—

Dying Father Granted Wish To See His Four Babes Again

NEW YORK, Aug. 26.—(P)—While death kept its distance, Alman Harrington, 23, was given his last wish today—that he be allowed to see his four small children again.

He was given his last wish by his wife, his four-year-old daughter and his mother-in-law, Mrs. Donehoo said.

Yesterday Harrington's mother, Mrs. Florence Kelly, obtained a habeas corpus writ requiring that the children be produced in court.

There Justice Denis Cahalan said: "My duty here is to look out for the best interests of the children, and having that in mind I think the children should be with the man who is dying, for the short span that he has left in life."

He then ruled that Mrs. Harrington might see the children three hours each day either in Mrs. Kelly's home or elsewhere in the neighborhood, but that "in the meantime the children were to remain in the custody of the mother of the dying man."

Doctors say the young father has only a short time to live.

For weeks, while Harrington lay in a hospital, his estranged wife—free on $2,500 bail awaiting trial on a felonious assault charge—refused to answer his plea to see the children once more.
